Message From The Desk of Eng. Essam Al-Najjar

(The Chairman Of General Organization For Export And Import Control)

I am happy to know that the first B2B denim supply chain event is happening in Cairo. Denim has become a very important category for Egyptian exporters and there is expected to be big growth for Egyptian exporters in this segment.

I can also see various international companies joining the show - bringing new technologies, materials and collaborations which are welcome and we hope they will further boost our exports.

As Chairman of GOIEC, I am happy to extend support to this event and I wish all the best to all participants.

I am very happy to know about the Denims and jeans Event in Egypt. Egypt has always had a strong foundation in garment manufacturing, and today, with its strategic location, trade agreements, and growing investments, the country is positioned as a key global hub for denim production and exports.

Egypt's duty-free access to major markets including the US, EU, and Africa gives manufacturers a significant advantage in global trade. The country's robust infrastructure, proximity to key shipping routes via the Suez Canal, and well-established logistics networks make it an ideal sourcing destination for international brands.

The ability to connect directly with leading denim mills, fabric suppliers, and technology providers at events like Denims and jeans allows us to stay ahead of market trends, enhance efficiency, and explore new opportunities in sustainable production.

Producing and consuming garments more sustainably could boost the global economy by almost $200 billion by 2030. However, this requires collective action by industry leaders, manufacturers and consumers. In this regard, GOEIC provides the necessary support for the growth of this promising sector by offering a variety of services such as inspection according to ISO 17020, Eco testing according to (OEKO Text- standard 100) and conformity certificate issuance (ISO 17065).

Compliance with sustainability provisions can avail access to trade preferences.

Eng. Essam Al-Najjar

The Chairman Of General Organization
For Export And Import Control

Message From The Desk of Mr. Sandeep Agarwal (Founder - Denimsandjeans.com)

I am thrilled to announce that Denimsandjeans is bringing its very first edition to the historic and dynamic land of Egypt! As one of the world's most significant textile hubs, Egypt has long been renowned for its premium cotton and rich textile heritage.

Today, it is emerging as a key player in the global apparel supply chain, offering immense opportunities for brands, manufacturers, and innovators alike.

With strategic trade agreements, proximity to key markets, and a growing apparel ecosystem, Egypt is set to witness exponential growth in the coming years. Global brands and retailers are increasingly looking at Egypt as a sourcing hub, leveraging its skilled workforce and competitive advantages in textile production.

Beyond business, Egypt is a land of extraordinary culture, history, and craftsmanship. From the majestic pyramids of Giza to the timeless beauty of the Nile, the country's artistic and architectural heritage continues to inspire creativity worldwide.

We are excited to host this milestone event in a country that bridges the past and future of fashion. Join us for this incredible journey as we explore opportunities, build connections, and celebrate the evolving denim industry in Egypt!
